Bringing Up Baby.

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 8

Trimming baby's nails can be a chore at times, especially if he's a confirmed fist-clencher. Two clever-mother suggestions that may prove just right for you:

* You might try snipping them right after a meal, when your wee one's drowsy, his fingers relaxed.

* If baby's a steady sitter, try placing him on your lap in front of a mirror for the manicure. Self-reflected glory is absorbing.

Vegetable review with two special points of view. Introducing a variety of vegetables at an early age serves a two-fold purpose. It helps build good eating habits when food acceptances are most easily established. It provides a wide range of vitamins and minerals. Gerber Strained Vegetables are notable for garden-fresh colors and natural-flavor goodness. Like all Gerber Baby Foods, each one is "custom-cooked" according to its own requirements to preserve the utmost in precious nutritive values.

Substitute plan. If your baby should occasionally rebel at a vegetable, why force the issue when you can easily substitute another with similar nutritive values? Mixed Vegetables for Sweet Potatoes or Squash for Spinach, for example?

Beauty course. Whenever you give baby his oil or lotion beauty treatment, snitch a few drops for the backs of your hands. Wonderfully satinating, also helps keep cuticles soft.

Smile center. Grins galore are usually in store for you when you topoff baby's main course with a Gerber Strained Pudding occasionally. Delicately flavored and delightfully smooth, any one will make a happy ending for a baby meal. Made from whole milk solids and egg yolks, they offer good nutritional benefits, too. Vanilla, Chocolate or Orange. P.S. For a flavor bonus, top with a dollop of any Gerber Strained Fruit. Gerber® Baby Foods, Box 72, Fremont, Michigan.
